

LOVE IS LIKE- A CLASS POEM BY 5SH

2/14/13

Andrew Chin

Love is like

Honey because love sticks people together,

Mountains - love has its ups and downs,

A fire because it makes you warm inside,

A river with lots of rocks in it because love is complicated,

And a bright light, because love opens your eyes and helps you see

What needs care.

Audun Hoeye

Love is like

A cat because if you don't take good care of it, it goes away,

Food- you can't live without it,

Riding a bike when the wind is blowing in your face because it's not easy, but when you get to your destination, it's wonderful.

And a flower. Love grows slowly, suddenly it flourishes, and it is Beautiful!

Brianna Li

Love is like

Plants and dirt- the roots are all tangled up with the dirt,

Fish in water- when water flows down, the fishes go with it, but when the water stops, they stop.

Earth and humans- humans rely on the earth for food and shelter.

If the earth perishes, humans go with it.

And love is like rain and clouds. The rain may fall, but the clouds

Bring rain back up every time.

Chuka Stergios

Love is like

Laughter - it can make you laugh every moment,
The Weather- you can be sure of it and you can be unsure of it,
A pencil and paper because they feel their best around each other,
Flowers and dirt because it is hard to pull them apart,
And love is like putting paper in the recycle bin because love helps the whole world.

David Saias-Kantor

Love is like

A bud blooming into a real flower – so pretty.
Water flowing down a stream because love is gentle,
A dog licking you because love is kind,
A pillow because it accepts you whenever you're tired and need to lie down,
And love is like gum because it sticks together and will never fall apart.

Destinee Rutherford

Love is like

Rules because you need them to feel safe and love makes you feel Safe.

Time- because you never have enough,
Sun shining in the sky – revealing its color,
Cars and the road- they find each other quickly,
And dirt and grass, never leaving each other's side.

Emmanuelle Sussman

Love is like
Winter turning into summer,
Two wii remotes,
A flower that needs a honeybee,
A pair of non-mismatched socks,
And love is like a heart growing one size more.

Hanvit Kim

Love is like
A surprise gift,
A pencil with an eraser- they move together to make work better,
A stuffed animal, always smiling and welcoming - even if you're harsh,
Chocolate that makes you sweeter,
And love is like two speakers. They can make sound alone, but sound better together.

Jack Gillis

Love is like
A pair of shoes- they're never apart,
A flag with extra stars,
A bookshelf with new books,
A lunchbox filled with food,
And love is like a mechanical pencil filled with lead. Without the lead, the mechanical pencil won't work.

Jackson Payne

Love is like
A heart. You can't live without it,
A flower- it starts small and then blossoms,
Testing a mike. You want it to work, but it sometimes doesn't,
Candy, it's so sweet you can't stop eating it,
And love is like a warm feeling that fills you up.

Jacob Istchenko

Love is like
Chocolate and vanilla- they go so well together,
The feeling of heaven- you know you're in a great place,
Syrup on pancakes,
And a wrapped present for everyone because everyone
Loves a present and everyone will find love someday.

Joseph Feld

Love is like
A house so you are protected,
A family that cares about you,
Friends that look out for one another,
Practicing your own beliefs,
And love is like having your own room.

Julianna Watson

Love is like

A bag of candy. Once you have some, you don't want to stop.

Two puzzle pieces. They fit together perfectly.

Cupcakes and frosting-they are fine alone, but delicious together.

And love is like a skeleton and organs. They need each other

To make a wonderful creature.

Mohammed Alonaizi

Love is like

Being near to a heater. It keeps you warm,

Playing. It makes me enthusiastic,

Running with wind blowing in your face,

Food and drink for a starving person,

And love is like a water hole in the middle of a desert.

Morris Kyn

Love is like

The sun rising over the earth after the dark and cold night,

A cat in desert ruins – a chance to rebuild hope,

A never-ending path to joy,

And a glass sculpture - because love is beautiful, yet fragile.

Rinka Tonsho

Love is like

Blooming flowers- because it takes time to turn into love,
A cracker because you have to be careful so it doesn't break into pieces,
A rubber band because you can stretch it, but not too much.
Numbers - they go on forever and you never know when love will end,
And love is like a treasure box because there's a lot to discover.

Wendy Frankel

Love is like

A moment of color in a black and white life,
A blast of heat when you walk in the door,
A stream of fresh water in a salty ocean,
A rainbow in a cloudy sky because love is a bright spot even if it's Dark everywhere else,
And love is like the eye in a hurricane because while everything else is going on, love stays.

Willem Rosenberg

Love is like

That tingly feeling you get when you go onto a rollercoaster,
A warm toasty fire heating up your body,
Energy rushing out from an explosive,
The soft touch of your grandmother's hand,
And love is like stale bread turning fresh.

Yali Beit-Arie

Love is like

The ocean because it has so many waves to go through before you reach land,

A fire in the middle of winter,

A roller coaster- love has its ups and downs,

Salt and pepper- they taste better together,

And a bright light in a dark room because love pushes the darkness Away.

Zach Allen

Love is like

Love is like fractions, always coming together as a whole,

Love is like two bicycle wheels rolling together and hitting a bump,

People in love stay together and just need to get through those times.

Love is like peanut butter and jelly- inseparable and meant to be together,

Love is like water, it can flow gently, but sometimes it comes down hard and can hurt,

And love is like hot chocolate and marshmallows - melting together as one.
